Y. M. C. A. NOTES.
Attorney Philo C. Calhoun gave an address upon "The Judicial in Government," before the members of the Y. M. C. A. naturalization class at the courthouse last evening. It was the largest meeting of the class, and proved of interest to all. A rapid mock examination, such as will be conducted on Tuesday, Feb. 1, when they try for citizenship papers, was conducted by Michael J. Flanagan, assistant clerk of the court.

"The Young Man and the Church" will J. Edward Mason's address at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. Doctor Mason has traveled for Livingston College, North Carolina, of which he is a professor and secretary of the corporation, and many times has been through Connecticut. He is an orator and is often spoken of as the foremost orator of the colored race. Thomas F. Willmore will preside.

The Right Living club from 5 to 6, will be given over this week to the discussion of a paper on "Activity and effort, the two most important tools of evolution," by August Mandelburg, a member of the class. A fellowship luncheon will be served at 6 o'clock, and this is the first of the Sunday evening get-togethers around the table, everything is being done to make it a success.

FATHER REGAINS STARVING FAMILY SEEKING 'CAREER'

Ansonia Man Rejoins Wife and Daughter, Who Were Starving.

New York, Jan. 29.—Meyers Mandell came from Providence yesterday prepared to take back home the wife and daughter whose ambitions for a career have subjected him to eight years' separation. The reunion took place at Bellevue hospital, where Mrs. Mandell and Golda, the daughter, are being nursed back to health. The Mandells resided at Ansonia, Conn., when neighbors advised the father to give Golda a musical education. They moved to Waterbury, then to Boston, actuated by the desire for advantage for Golda. In Boston the girl's voice excited favorable notice. Then Mr. Mandell went to Providence to live in a furnished room, while the mother and daughter came to New York to study. Later they went to London, Paris and Vienna. The time arrived when Golda was ready to sing in grand opera in New York.

Late Thursday night the mother and daughter were taken to a furnished room in West Forty-fifth street, suffering from hysteria, which Bellevue physicians attributed partly to lack of nourishment and partly to unsatisfied ambitions. They will be kept at the hospital a few days longer for observation of their mental condition.

Brass Co. Employe Seeking Damages

Whether Antonio Massey has more than 10 per cent vision remaining in his left eye is a question which Compensation Commissioner Edward T. Buckingham must decide. Massey, who is employed in the Bridgeport Brass Co. factory, met with an accident April 6, 1915, which disabled him for a long time, during which he received workmen's compensation. Later he presented another claim for loss of the sight of his eye. Dr. G. H. Warner will testify next Friday when the hearing will be resumed. It would remain more than 10 per cent vision in the optic Massey will not receive further compensation.

Mexicans Starving To Death In Sonora State

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 29.—Many Mexicans were on the verge of starvation in the Sahuaripa district in Sonora, Mex., according to persons arriving here today. It was in the Sahuaripa section that Alberto Garcia and his band followed, who surrendered unconditionally Tuesday, had been operating.

FIRE THREATENS BUILDING OF UNITED ILLUMINATING CO.

Fire, this morning threatened the building of the Illuminating Co., which is a quantity of excelsior, packing-boxes and rubbish that had carelessly been thrown into the rear enclosure, took fire. Chief Johnson responded with Chemical Co. No. 1, and the brick building soon was extinguished. A repairman was administered to employees of the company who denied that the accumulation was more than resulted from unpacking two days' freight.

HARBOR DREDGING URGED TO LESSEN INVASION DANGER

Colonel Black Says Improvements Would Double Difficulties of Attack.

New York, Jan. 29.—That dredging the shallow waters of New York harbor would tend greatly to relieve present congested conditions of freight and at the same time prove of aid between the legitimate American battleships was the statement yesterday of Col. William M. Black, U. S. A., member of the Board of Army Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and of the New York Harbor Line Board.

Colonel Black said that if the $13,000,000 appropriation asked for was granted by Congress that it would mean the widening and deepening of Buttermilk Channel, the elimination of rocks in Diamond Reef, clearing Hell Gate of dangerous reefs and shoals and would open to merchant vessels of the larger type passage between the Williamsburg bridge and Thirty-fourth street. He said that it would mean practically two entrances to New York harbor for large vessels, including battleships, and in the event the harbor was besieged it would require twice the number of enemy ships to do it as compared with the present time.

In Buttermilk Channel at mean low water there is a depth of 27 feet, Colonel Black said. At low water during the spring tides the depth might be one or two feet less, and if this condition is made worse by strong winds the depth might be as much as four feet less. The other channel to the north of Governor's Island, over Diamond Reef, which has a depth of more than 30 feet, is obstructed by rocks lying at a depth of 23 feet. Centuries Reef lies opposite that entrance, with a depth of about 24 feet.

"Of course, for the commander of a large battle ship, if he had all the time the world and traffic was not congested, the present depths would be ample," Colonel Black said. "But such is not the case. Between the deep water of the upper bay off Governor's Island and the deep water of Long Island Sound there are reefs of a total length of 2,500 feet, obstructing a straight channel 35 feet and more in depth. If that 2,500 feet were removed two entrances would be available to New York harbor."

"Few persons realize how very congested New York harbor is," he continued. "But there is no congestion in the East river between the Williamsburg bridge and 34th street. The reason is that there is not water. There are piers there, but it is necessary often to partly load a vessel, shift her to deeper water and finish loading with lighters. If this was territory could be properly dredged it would open up tremendous space for bunking large vessels which now crowd the piers on the North river."

Colonel Black said that opposite to the entrance of the New York Navy yard there is Corlear's reef, which causes bad currents and greatly hinders the navy in getting vessels in and out of the yard. This, he said, could be remedied if the appropriation were granted. The channel east of Blackwell's Island also is shallow and should be deepened, he said.

It is proposed to widen the channel in Hell Gate between Hallett's Point and Mill Rock and deepen the channel over Frying Pan Shoals and over Pot Rock. Dredging also is proposed over Middleground, off the Sunken Meadows.

"With this work done New York harbor would be in excellent condition," he said. "The larger vessels could use the Sound route, and this would be utilized particularly by the battleship vessels between here and New England. Those of light draft as this route now, but it would open the way for the deeper vessels, which have to go miles out of their way to get deep water."

When asked about military dangers of the present situation, Colonel Black replied:

"It is unnecessary for me to go into details. However, the strategic feature of the matter received the official notice of Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, who in a letter to Champ Clark, Speaker of the House, urged action on projects for a waterway thirty-five feet deep and 1,000 feet wide in Buttermilk Channel and other improvements. The projects were considered by the Congress by the War Department and were included in the Rivers and Harbors bill which the House passed and the Senate rejected."

Secretary Daniels in his letter to the Speaker, said:

"There is not sufficient water in these channels to insure the entering or leaving of a first class battleship at all times."

"At present only one battleship can be handled per day, and then only provided the weather conditions are normal. If the winds are such as to blow the water out of New York Bay, then the depth of water in the approach channel is not sufficient safely to navigate a large ship. As an illustration, the following is noted: 'On November 2, 1915, the U. S. S. Texas, one of our new first class battleships, was ready to leave the yard, but the prevailing northwest winds had so reduced the depth of water in the Buttermilk Channel that even at high water there was not sufficient depth to insure her leaving the yard in safety. This ship, therefore, was forced to remain in the navy yard for over 12 hours.'

Exonerate Trolley Crew in Liston Death

The crew of the trolley car under the fender of which the body of John Liston of 266 Lindley street was found several weeks ago, is exonerated from blame in causing his death. Coroner Phelan in a finding made yesterday says that he is unable to determine how Liston met death but he satisfied her as not run down by the trolley car. Frederick U. Sweet of 494 East Main street was the motorman of the car and he had with him Lester Swank, who was learning to operate it. Swank was at the controller box but Sweet saw Liston's body as the car crossed the railroad tracks. It was lying on the trolley tracks on the other side of the railroad opposite Eckart's brewery. Sweet took charge and stopped the car before it ran over Liston.

Pennsylvania crude oil was advanced 10 cents a gallon to $2.35.

HE'S 72, SHE'S 22; CALL PASTOR FIRST AND THEN POLICE

Threats Fly as Serenaders Make Night Hideous For "Newlyweds."

New York, Jan. 29.—When it was learned last night that Charles H. Vanderhoof, seventy-two years old and a wealthy hat manufacturer of East Orange, and Miss Nellie Elsie Miller, twenty-two, of Caldwell, N. J., had been secretly married last Wednesday, more than a hundred young men and women of Caldwell gathered at the bride's home with all kinds of noisemaking implements and began a hideous charivari.

Frank W. Miller, contracting builder, the father of the bride, appeared on the front porch when the noise was at its height and called for silence. The crowd, believing a pleasant announcement would be made, became still, and then Mr. Miller is said to have shouted:

"I'll shoot every person that does not get out of this yard in three minutes!"

This was met by hoots from the crowd, and the noisemaking was resumed with greater energy. There were calls of:

"Where's Nellie? Bring her out!" "Where's Grandpa Vanderhoof? Oh, you grandpa caveman!"

Mr. Miller is said to have cried that he would get a shotgun as he ran back into the house. However, he did not return, but telephoned to the police, and soon Chief John Harkey and three other policemen appeared and began to struggle with the unwelcome serenaders. They forced them off the Miller lawn but for several hours the racket of banging cans made sleep for the Miller family and neighbors impossible.

A few days ago Mrs. Vanderhoof purchased a home owned by the girl's grandmother, a few doors from the Miller home, but the serenaders kept such a close watch last night that he and his bride, trapped in her parents' home, were unable to reach their own "dove cot."

Mr. Vanderhoof is the father of five children and the grandfather of 18. His youngest child is 10 years older than his bride. Despite the half century of time separating the ages of Mr. Vanderhoof and his bride her parents said it was a "true love match."

Friends of the family had been informed early last week of the informal engagement, and that the wedding would be on Washington's birthday. Therefore the surprise was complete yesterday when her parents announced that the couple had been secretly married Wednesday night by the Rev. T. Stuart Molyneux, of the First Presbyterian church of Caldwell.

Mr. Miller had been prominently identified with the social affairs of Caldwell and was popular in the younger set. Many of her girl friends were in serenading party that last night was driven off by the police.

PRINCE WILLIAM TO ENTER DURAZZO IN TRIUMPH

Rome, Jan. 29.—Heavy rains during the last few days have made northern Albania almost impracticable for the troops. The Idea Nazionale's Durazzo correspondent says that Austria and Germany are preparing for a triumphal re-entry of Prince William of Wied, who abdicated the throne of Albania in 1914.

THE ELECTRIC SHOP

—AT—A FEW HINTS.

Of the many electrical-heating devices, three are especially popular among housewives—the electric iron, the toaster and the coffee percolator. By far the most popular of these three is the electric flat iron.

The electric flat iron has come to be a necessity in the home. Of all the electric devices, it is undoubtedly the most convenient. Connected to an ordinary socket, becoming hot within a few minutes after the current is turned, clean and cool, necessitating no change of irons, it is one of the greatest aids to wash day.

The electric toaster will make toast on the dining-room table. With the turn of a switch, the coils of wire become red hot in an instant. The slices of bread are then placed on each side of these red-hot wires and in a "jiffy" the toast is ready to serve, piping hot. The toasters are very inexpensive, both as to price and the cost of operation.

Similar to the toaster, the coffee percolator may be used on the dining-room table. Within thirty-five seconds after the current is turned on the percolation process commences. The coffee is always hot and ready to serve.

The popular opinion is that many of these electric devices will not give satisfaction—that they will soon burn out. This is a mistaken idea. To show their confidence in electrical-heating devices many of the manufacturers are guaranteeing their products, and are willing to replace any of the articles which do not give complete satisfaction.

We will gladly show you any of these devices and many others connected up ready for use. Our show room will make an interesting place for you to visit.
